

MERCURY TO FALL; STORM HITS COUNTY

Forecasters Believe Temperature Will Really Go Down in Next Day
DAMAGE IS DONE

Columbus Hit Hard by Rain, Wind Storm

Forecasters of Ohio's weather again today predicted that a sharp fall in temperature will be observed late today and Thursday. Misted at numerous times this winter by freak weather which has refused to become cold despite all predictions, forecasters are again willing to take a chance. This time, they feel certain, mercury will go on the toboggan.

Despite a terrific wind and rain storm early Wednesday morning, daylight found the weather more like spring than winter. Temperatures did not fall below the 50 mark at any time Tuesday night.

STORM HITS COUNTY

The Citizens Telephone Co. reported Wednesday morning that it had poles and wires down in nearly every locality surrounding Circleville. Repairs were ordered in today to rush rehabilitation. The Southern Ohio Electric Co. reported little damage to its property.

Rainfall which began Tuesday afternoon and included the hard wind and rainstorm of early Wednesday totaled .28 of an inch, according to Dr. H. R. Clarke's report. The Scioto river has fallen nearly to the zero mark.

COLUMBUS HIT

Inventory was being taken in Columbus today after a large amount of damage in that city by the storm. Several houses, plate glass windows were broken, and telephone wires were leveled hanging traffic.

Among the places victimized by the storm was a part of the antenna system of radio station WCAH on Brown road.

Columbus' downtown streets were sprinkled with glass this morning and at Front and Long streets workmen have been called to remove a roof about 30 feet square that was blown off a vacant filling station into the middle of the thoroughfare.

LONDON, Jan. 13.—A violent gale came up suddenly over the English channel today, whipping the seas into a fury which threatened even the larger ships.

Shipping came to a virtual halt as craft of all sizes fled to nearest ports for refuge.

BOULDER CITY, Nev., Jan. 13.—One man, a carpenter, was missing today after an 80-mile gale had lashed through this home city of Boulder Dam government workers unroofing houses terrorizing residents and causing $15,000 damage.

More than 100 families were homeless. Many went to Las Vegas to seek shelter.

A large government dormitory was damaged and concrete walls of an unfinished garage were blown down.

MIDDLEBURG, Va., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Spencer Hilsley, comely widow of a former Milwaukee capitalist, who for several years had been a prominent figure in the fashionable hunting set of this horse-loving section of Virginia, was found brutally murdered in her home here today.

She had been beaten to death with an iron boot-jack which was found near by covered with blood. In an adjoining room was found the body of her elderly maid, Mrs. Annie Butler, 62, who had been similarly beaten to death with the same instrument.

Preliminary examination of the bodies and the premises by county authorities indicated that both women had been assaulted.

The condition of the house indicated that it had been robbed as well.

Sheriff's deputies immediately started search for a negro man of all work who was missing.

THANKS GIVEN

The officers and the committee of the Pickaway-co Public Health league, sponsors of Christmas seal sales in the county wish to thank all who helped in any way to make the sale a success. There are still a number of seals out, according to Mrs. Fannie Kirk, executive secretary.

Number of Possibilities Are Voiced

BY WILLIAM K. HUTCHISON.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.—President Hoover will name an outstanding liberal to the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court caused by the resignation of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, if he follows the advice of his political advisers.

The names of Judge William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, and Senator William E. Borah, headed a long list reported under consideration by the president. Both names were stressed in administration circles due to a rumor that the president will go to the west for a successor to Holmes.

Kenyon appeared a pleasant favorite because of the coolness between Mr. Hoover and Borah.

OTHERS NAMED

Other names reported under consideration were Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, Federal Judge Wayne C. Rorer of Louisiana (a nephew of the senator), Judge Joseph C. Hutcheson, of the Texas circuit court, Federal Judge Learned Hand, and Appellate Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo, of New York, Garrett McEnaney and Warren Olney, of San Francisco, John W. INSURANCE CO. CLAIMS ARSON

Pickaway-Co Mutual Association Answers Suit of Estate of Deceased Man.

M. L. Mathews, Bucksport, Wis., farmer who met death under peculiar circumstances, is accused of arson and wrongful concealment of circumstances when insuring property in an answer and cross petition filed in Ross-co common pleas court Tuesday by the Pickaway-co Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Association of Ashville.

The action is in response to a suit brought by William Bonner, administrator of Mathews' estate, in which the sum of $1,956.80, with interest, was asked of the insurance company as result of the destruction of a barn, silo and carriage house by fire on the Mathews place, August 1, 1931.

BODY WAS FOUND

Mathews' body was found in the ruins of the barn and an investigation was made on the theory that the man had committed suicide by hanging himself from a hay mow after setting fire to the buildings. Mathews, aged 80, was reported to have been in bad financial circumstances at the time, of which mention is made in the answer and cross petition of the insurance company, prepared by Attorneys Barton Walters and J. D. Withgott.

The defendants assert that Mathews' property was encumbered by a mortgage held by the Highland-co Bank of Greenfield prior to receipt of application for insurance, and that this and other facts pertinent of such insurance by the company on July 16, 1930 were wrongfully withheld with the idea of deceiving the company.

CHARGE ARSON

The defendants' answer further that Mathews, pressed by creditors set fire to the premises with the idea of collecting the insurance thereon.

In the cross petition, the company claims that Mathews, planning to fire the premises, influenced his grandson, Robert L. Bonner, to take out insurance on property he kept on the premises.

The company states that a settlement for $325 was made with the grandson, on which judgment for that amount, with interest from September 21, 1931, is asked.

'Victory' Dinner of Party to Be Held in Columbus Thursday
LEADERS TO TALK

Much Presidential Timber Is Expected

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—Attracting nation-wide attention because of the number of presidential possibilities in the state, Ohio Democratic chieftains began rallying in Columbus today for the second "Victory" dinner of the party scheduled tomorrow.

Arrangements for the "love feast" were virtually completed today under the direction of Walter F. Heer, chairman of the Franklin-co Democratic executive committee. Congressman A. P. Lamneck will preside as toastmaster at the get-together.

TIMBER PRESENT

Although the meeting here is but one of numerous similar events in which Democratic leaders and the rank and file of local organizations will take part throughout the nation, special interest is attached to the local rally in view of the fact that Governor George White, U. S. Senator Robert I. Bulkley, former Governor James M. Cox and former secretary of war Newton D. Baker, have been prominently mentioned as "presidential timber."

The Columbus meeting, which incidentally is to serve as a Jackson Day reunion as well, will be attended by the four Ohio presidential possibilities. Former Governor Vic Donahue will be unable to attend the dinner because of illness, it was said.

OUTLINE SITUATION

Speakers at the "Victory" dinner are expected to interpret the developments marking the present political situation in the state and nation and point the way to Democratic "victory" at the polls next November.

Preceding the dinner, Democratic leaders and workers are expected to hold informal conferences on the political situation and make plans for the impending national and state political campaign.

Inasmuch as the meeting is to serve as a Jackson Day reunion also, no more formal for any office—county, state or nation—will be permitted at the dinner, it was announced.

Only officials were present as Cullens went to his death, which he was reported to have met calmly. The execution was at 8:00 a. m.

A small crowd which had collected outside the prison where the hanging was carried out dispersed after the posting of an official bulletin stating Cullens had died.

The American lost several legal fights in an attempt to have his conviction repealed.

Prosecutors for the crown declared Cullens murdered Musa in a lonely field near Carrick Fergus, Ulster, last September, in a personal feud which grew out of disension over the division of profits from the American tour of Agha, the Turk, who claimed to be 157 years old.

This Week Is Important For League's Quintets

With Circleville, Grandview and Westerville tied for the leadership of the Central Buckeye scholastic league lead after the first round of contest last Friday, this week's schedule may mean either do or die for the leaders.

In the first place Circleville can either wind up on top the stack with undisputed first place in its possession or it can finish in the cellar, all alone, oh, so all alone. Two games are on the Tiger schedule for the week with Bill Zwick's Grandview team being confronted on Friday evening on the Columbus suburb's own court and Jerry Kingsmore's Marysville outfit coming here Saturday evening. Who the officials will be for the Westerville game is not known, but has been announced that Burghardt of Heidelberg university will officiate the game here.

GRANDVIEW STRONG
The strength of Zwick's Grandview is well known with that team gaining a one-point victory over a better-than-average Delaware outfit in the opening rounds of the season. The Grandview mentor has built his team around Harold Sargent, truly fine forward, although small in stature. A good center graces the Grandview lineup, one who will make Bill Heggie, Coach Herberholz hope, work at all times.

Just what Marysville has is not known, although Westerville, some what upset the general order of things last week by crashing through with a one-point margin. Kingsmore always has something that can be figured as a certainty. Take the past football season. Defeated by two touchdowns at the end of the first half, Kingsmore told his squad and told it plenty, not in kind words which some coaches employ, but in harsh, hard words explained just what had to be done and, what happened? Well, Circleville took one on the chin in as disappointing a last half as was ever seen here.

OTHER FRAYS
Marysville plays Delaware's outfit on the Marysville court on Friday evening and will be tested to the limit.
Bexley visits Westerville and plays Grandview at home Friday and Saturday and Westerville alternates meeting Bexley at home going to Delaware for the Saturday game.
Coach Pete Herberholz is working his squad without a let-up this week for he, above all of us, knows what can happen this coming Friday and Saturday. Coach Herberholz knows that defeat in both games would just about spoil what looks like a successful season. He, too, knows that he must keep driving his squad to eliminate any over-confidence which might spring into the general order of things. But we believe, Coach Herberholz' squad is about over-confidence. We believe the five boys who make up the first team, and the substitutes, have learned that hard work, taking nothing for granted, is the only way victories can be gained.

STAND PAT ON 5
Circleville's hopes will again be placed in Morie Davis and Carl Purcell at forwards, Bill Heggie at center, and Dean White and Pete Stout at guards to begin the Grandview game, and if they play well to start the Marysville tilt. This combination has worked well together in the past few games and should go a long way in the Central Buckeye league this year.

Any member of the family of Jacob Bowers R. F. D. 4 Circleville is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theater. Call at this office for ticket.

CLUB TOSSERS SEEK REVENGE
Lancaster Team Here To Feel Tre of C. A. C. After 'Bearded' Defeat.

Circleville Athletic Club tossers will be out after victory Thursday evening when the Lancaster Krogers appear on the local court. Taken back somewhat by their lopsided defeat at the hands of the House of David team last Friday the Clubmen are out for revenge and the first team that meets the local outfit is likely to feel the sting.

The House of David presented about the sweetest team in many days to appear before a local crowd and the general conception this team had of basketball and how it should be played was pleasing to the large crowd which witnessed the contest.

The strength of the Kroger team is not known although the fact that a number of athletes who have been playing with the Hooking Glass team in recent years are known to represent the best team in Lancaster.

The Club squad is in good condition and will give a good account of itself.
The preliminary will see the Grant Flying Clouds and Waverly tangling in what should be a hot fray.
The prelim will begin at 7:30 p. m.

6 GAMES TONIGHT
COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 13.—The six games appearing on the state's basketball menu tonight was just an indication of what may be expected before this week draws to a conclusion.
In the outstanding battle of the evening Coach Butch Grover's Ohio university dribblers will stack up against Miami at Oxford in a Buckeye conference tilt. Marshall, which recently was voted into the conference but not eligible for a championship participation until next year will work out against the strong Wittenberg cagers at Springfield. Denison takes on Western Reserve at Cleveland.
Hiram and Kent will cross off another Ohio loop engagement with Otterbein doing likewise at Kenyon. Defiance journeyed to Dayton to give the university cagers their 1932 send-off.

LOUD SQUAWKS HEARD FROM BASEBALL STARS IN SALARY
By LES CONKLIN
NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Loud and prolonged squawks from big league baseball stars throughout the country were heard today in response to wholesale salary cuts which may total a million dollars for the sixteen major league outfits.
Melvin Ott, mild-mannered outfielder of the New York Giants, indignantly declared, at his New Orleans home that he had received an "unexpectedly large" cut. Master Melvin returned the document with the hope that the matter "would be adjusted."

HERMAN AGAIN
Babe Herman, Brooklyn outfielder whose grand batting average in past holdout battles has been .000, sent word from California that he would not sign for a penny less than $19,000, his 1931 stipend.
Simultaneously, however, the first of the 1932 holdouts weakened when Bill Terry, first baseman of the Giants, said in Memphis that he would take a wage slash "if there is a general cut all over the league." And there was little doubt today that a slash all along the line will be in order.
Two days ago the New York club told Terry he would have to take a forty per cent cut or quit baseball. Other Giants slated for a salary decrease are Fred Lindstrom, Shanty Hogan, Bill Walker and Hugh Critz.
There will be no leniency on the part of the New York club, which was ordered by the courts yesterday to pay $40,000 in back salary to Francis X. McQuade, its former treasurer, in effect, money saved by the proposed payroll slash will be turned over to McQuade.
ROBINS TO CUT
Practically every member of the Brooklyn club is due for a decrease. Few cuts will be levied on the Yankees, however, and bonus clauses in the contracts may nullify these. Vernon Gomez, star southpaw, and Lou Gehrig, slugging first baseman, who performed notable feats last season, have been given increases and have practically accepted terms, according to Ed Barrow.
Babe Ruth and other members of the Yanks will receive their contracts today. It was hinted the club is trying to bring the bambino in line by offering him $60,000 cash and a bonus clause which will increase his salary to $80,000 if he can continue to propel baseballs over the fence with his accustomed regularity.

CINCINNATI STAR IN PAY WRANGLE
CINCINNATI, O., Jan. 13.—The contemplated wide-spread baseball salary cuts hit here today when Charles "Red" Lucas Cincinnati pitcher, announced he refused to accept $15,500 less than last year's salary. Lucas, who has been with the Reds since 1926, branded the offer as "unfair" and announced he thought a continuation of the 1931 salary justifiable because of his record.
Last year he won 14 and lost 13 games for the club and made 97 appearances as a pinch hitter.

KEEPS BIRDS IN PRISON
LEAVENWORTH. — Leavenworth Prison's bird man can keep his canaries even though he has twice been convicted of murder. Robert Stroud's business is raising canaries which are bought by bird-fanciers all over the country. He was sent to prison 23 years ago for killing a man in an Alaska bar-room fight. In 1916 Woodrow Wilson saved him from death after he fatally stabbed a prison guard. Stanford Bates, director of the prison bureau, has permitted Stroud to continue his work in spite of a prison ban on private business. He will have a double cell and equipment for working on a cufe he has developed for psittacosis. His expenditures will be limited to $10 a month.

FAVOR SMITH AT AGUA CALIENTE
AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., Jan. 13.—Winner of the Los Angeles open golf tournament, MacDonald Smith, New York professional golfer, today was favored to win the Agua Caliente open, "world's richest tourney," opening here today.
Fair skies and a rain damped course greeted the 128 players contesting for the $15,000 prize money.
The tournament will continue four days with 18 holes play each morning.
One of the favored players was Gene Sarazen, New York Italian who won the first Agua Caliente open three years ago. John Golden and George Von Elm tied for first money last year.
Other "money players" in the tournament included Walter Hagen, Joe Kirkwood, Johnny Farrell, Harry Cooper and Leo Diegel, the latter the "pro" at Agua Caliente.

URGES TAX ON JOBS
PORTLAND, Ore. — A job tax to relieve the national debt is the suggestion of Marcus A. Spurlin, of Portland. Spurlin would place a tax of one-half of one per cent on every job, based on salaries and collected by employers. He believes it would place the burden on persons best able to pay. The suggestion was sent to Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, where it was noted with interest and placed on file, according to a letter to the Portland man.

Beware Kidney Acidity

Alleged Hawaiian Attackers
Here is the first picture to arrive in the United States of the five Hawaiian youths, alleged to be the attackers of Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of Lieut. Thomas Massie, an American naval officer in Honolulu, who is now under arrest with his wife's mother, Mrs. Granville Foreman, charged with the slaying of one of them, Joseph Kahahawai (center). Top left is Harold Ida, who was kidnapped and received a severe beating. Top right is David Takai; lower left, Henry Chang and Benjamin Ahakua, lower right. All the men were identified by Mrs. Massie at the trial, but the jury disagreed, regardless. The U. S. Government has taken steps to protect Americans in Honolulu against threatened violence arising out of the racial antagonism.

Men Who Use Their Cars in Business
PREFER STERLING GAS
When it comes to buying ANYTHING, salesmen are all from Missouri. You have to SHOW these practical-minded men. STERLING'S most sweeping single endorsement lies in the fact that more and more traveling men who drive their own cars are turning to STERLING "for keeps." STERLING gives them assurance that they'll make each town on schedule without costly layover for repairs. STERLING lets them cover more territory at lower cost. This better, drier gas has sold hard-headed business men on actual performance!

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a more movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes three good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, acting when it comes to making the bile, just like the liver itself. So don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Request a substitute sheet at all stores. (© 1931) M. C.

Blase

HISTORY lost much of its pristine charm when the mind of the reader, which had once shared in imagination the thrill of great discoveries and conquerors, by the constant repetition of epochal events in these amazing days was dulled to all but the most momentous.

Great achievements in exploration, navigation, invention and science were once so rare that they were "news" for generations, even centuries. Today they are crowded off the front page and out of public consciousness by a rapid succession of equally eventful news.

Within the last 12 months men have traveled through the air at a speed of 400 miles an hour, have invaded those terrestrial heights known as the stratosphere, have circled the globe on wings of their own making, and through the radio, have brought the ends of the world together as into one vast assembly of entertainers and listeners.

The importance of the discovery of America was not appreciated at the time, nor was the significance of the first application of steam and electric power understood. So also does this generation hold commonplace achievements which may prove revolutionary in their effect.

On Christmas Day the nation "listened in" on the first broadcast of grand opera from New York's Metropolitan Opera House. It heard, it admired or it scoffed. Yet those who in far-off cities and isolated farmhouses heard the stately music should have been impressed as the presence of an inspiring beginning. That program may have been the beginning of a new era for music and music appreciation in America, where grand opera has never belonged to the general public.

Education by Radio

RADIO has become a part of the equipment of the public school system. For several years assembly and class rooms have been tuning in for broadcasts having an educational value. Use of the radio in the school room in other ways has been proposed and predicted. The public schools of Cleveland, O., are among the pioneers in the application of the radio to educational needs. Their latest experiment consisted of simultaneous radio instruction of classes in 53 different buildings by a single teacher. The work of the radio division has been checked against that done according to pre-radio methods and is declared to be yielding better results.

It does not yet appear that the schools can afford to eliminate the personal relationship between instructor and pupil, but it is becoming more and more evident that future generations will make more extensive use of the radio, motion pictures and television.

Television may be the means of bringing top-heavy educational costs down to the level of public means. It may also be the means of bringing all pupils under the inspiration and instruction of the world's few really great educators. Education might well use the radio, but it cannot monopolize it.

A Man's Intentions

WHATEVER a man's problem and handicaps there is a word that describes the one thing he can do and must do. That word is "Forward." The man who lets nothing stop his steady advance need fear no future obstacles. His motor is his will and no force can long chain and impoverish that. Success comes sometimes when least expected. It is missed sometimes because of lack of faith in its existence. But he who advances, whose watchword is "forward," is never surprised at prosperity. He welcomes it when it comes for he has long expected it and is prepared to meet its responsibilities.

Success is wholly a matter of mental attitude toward success. The half-hearted idea that it may come out never made a success of anything. Success comes from the determination at the beginning to be successful and then by being it. It isn't swelled-headedness to believe oneself bigger than anything which may stand in the way of success but to believe that is necessary to success.

Foethe in his "Life and Character" said "Strictly speaking, everything depends upon a man's intentions." Now they are married in haste and divorced with pleasure. Ten years more of life for careful living. The trick's the price. One business that still operates on a paying basis is the surgeon's. Never yet have people scorned laws made by wise, sincere and honorable men.

No use flying to Switzerland. The Swiss haven't any medals any more.

Yet many men have missed fame only because they had names hard to remember.

When the husband begins to find fault the wife suspects that he has found another woman.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES

by Sidney Warwick

CHAPTER LXI

Haste pulled the tarpaulin sheet over the dead man again.
 "I hope to God we find that man Martell at Monksilver!" he said.
 In addition to the cases containing the white deadly powder was a small safe, locked, of course.

"The contents of this safe should prove interesting," said Isham.
 "Probably we shall find there the business books, lists of agents employed—all the details of this organization that Martell controls."
 Martell, of course, had always stayed well in the background, working through a network of agents, getting his $20 or $25 an ounce for the deadly drug.

"That unspeakable profiteer who trafficked in bodies and souls, often of young girls still in their teens," went on Isham with restrained passion, "with his agents in all the low dance dens and night clubs—well, tonight will see his evil activities stamped out, thank God! Only if Martell himself escapes, I shall feel almost as though I've failed in the job I set myself!" he added fiercely.
 "We shall get him at Monksilver," said Jim confidently.

MOTIVE

"Those rubies will draw them to Monksilver. That poor girl, his stepdaughter, Helen Blair—I wonder what this will mean for her? A chance of freedom, or happiness at last, I hope." Then abruptly: "Isham, it was not altogether impersonal, this vendetta you've pursued against Martell?"

For a moment Isham did not speak. Then:
 "I'll tell you. In South America Martell was concerned in that other damnable business that we call the white slave traffic—until Buenos Aires got too hot to hold him. And the wife of my best pal got entrapped... and my pal shot himself. Not till Martell had disappeared from the Argentine did I find out that he was the man responsible. But I swore I'd find him." Isham said in a low, intense voice.

"It was in Sing Sing I got the clue I wanted—and the first hint of this dope-smuggling traffic of his on the Essex coast. He'd changed his name, grown a beard, wore tinted glasses to alter his appearance—but I traced him at last!"
 Isham turned to Haste.

"Shouldn't we be getting a move on, Inspector? We want to get our hands on that man at Monksilver!"

The dead man was taken to an outbuilding, while the door of the crypt was closed again and made secure. At Beggar's Court Mrs. Martin had recovered sufficiently to be questioned.

"For your own sake you'd best make a clean breast of everything," Haste warned her, "since obviously, even if only passively, you've been accessory to all this."

"What could I do?" the woman broke out. "I didn't like it, but I couldn't betray my husband. And this—murder of poor Creyke—at least, he had nothing to do with that. It was a terrible shock to him when he heard what Martell and Frome had done."

"Why was Creyke murdered?" put in Haste.

"He had been told to drive Mr. Severn to Monksilver; and Martell found some words written to Creyke by Mr. Severn that showed he meant to betray them—written on the joker of a pack of cards it was." And Jim remembered that half of a playing card they had found with part of the word Monksilver on it and the rest of the message torn off. "After leaving Mr. Severn at Monksilver," where Martell wanted him to show them where something was hidden—I don't know what—Creyke was to have gone and fetched the police to catch them there. But Martell—the woman broke off with a little shudder.

Haste pulled the tarpaulin sheet over the dead man.

IMPATIENT

"But Mr. Severn—where is he now?" broke in Jim impatiently.
 "He was at Beggar's Court until the first night he came, sir," she said; "had been here five weeks. He had come home unexpected—and by accident he found out what they were up to here in this house, all about the dope. Mr. Severn was furious—and Martell attacked him, struck him down. He suffered such injuries to his head that he was lying in bed, and for weeks here in this house up to a few days of the night you came here—"

"But I asked you where he is now?" cried Jim. "At least he is still living!"
 "Yes. When he was brought back from Monksilver nearly a week ago, they didn't bring him here, of course. He was taken to Frome's place, the Cross Keys. He's been there ever since."

And at the Cross Keys Inn they found Frank Severn.
 "It's no use denying he's here. We know he is under this roof," Haste had told the terrified Mrs. Frome. "Your husband is already under arrest—and I'll clap you under arrest this very minute if you don't take us straight to where Mr. Severn is."

Frank Severn was lying with closed eyes in a barely furnished attic. He did not open his eyes when they entered. The sight of his friend's white emaciated face went to Jim's heart. They had brought with them the doctor who had been summoned by telephone to Beggar's Court. He bent over the man in the bed.

"Drugged," he said, with his finger on the pulse. "Probably he's been kept more or less under drugs since they brought him from Monksilver, poor chap."
 "Will it be safe to remove him to Manorways?" Jim asked. "Poor old Frank. I hate to think of his coming back to consciousness in this infernal place."
 The doctor nodded.
 "Safe enough, I think. The best thing to do in fact."
 Frank Severn was still unconscious when they left him in bed at Manorways in the doctor's hands. Jim had gone on ahead to break the news there that the missing man had been found at last and was being brought to Manorways.

Jim read in Katharine's startled eyes a relief no less intense than his own.
 Then the five men drove off to Monksilver where, unless their calculations proved to be at fault, the closing act of the drama would be played out.

THE TRAP

At Monksilver the trap had been carefully baited should Martell and Sant elect to walk into it. The house and grounds were seemingly utterly deserted as Haste and the others drove up—though half a dozen plain clothes men were waiting in hiding ready to pounce.

There had been no sign as yet of the two wanted men. But this was hardly surprising. Their hurried flight from Beggar's Court by water had deprived them of the use of a car. But almost certainly, Jim felt, they would come. It was their last hope of securing the coveted Czarina Rubies. And probably, since the blow had fallen with such unexpected swiftness, the fugitives would be unable to lay their hands on any money kept in reserve against such an emergency, since neither man would be likely to dare venture near his own home, knowing that the telephone would have been busy and the house of each watched. Sooner or later tonight that glittering bait would draw them to Monksilver.

FAHRENHEIT REVEALED

AS A PECK'S BAD BOY—Daniel Gabriel Fahrenheit, the man who invented the mercury thermometer, was apparently a typical Peck's bad boy in his youth.

This fact is indicated by a letter dated January 21, 1707, which was recently found in the archives of the city of Danzig, Germany, and which Professor Walter Meier, a member of the University of California at Los Angeles, brought to America for English translation.

According to the letter, Young Fahrenheit, at 21, was causing so much trouble, and was so incorrigible, that the city council was requested to help in shutting him away to the Dutch East Indies. The plan, however, was not successful.

The councilmen, in the letter, stated that they "must have" him by their own consent, and in an office, in the hope that he would learn to conduct himself properly.

But, the letter stated, "he has gone very badly with us, and he has great and his mother has behaved himself in a very bad way."
 When the guardians, after a long time, had failed to get him to behave, they decided to appeal to the city council.

Usually you can tell by looking at a man that his idea of work, while achievement is passing other ears.

Food Variety for Children Better Than Any Tonics

Like Adults, the Very Young Get Tired of Routine Meals; While Various Other Conditions Also Must Be Watched If They Lose Appetites

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
 Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

RECENTLY a mother asked me to recommend a "tonic." For some reason or other her youngster had been eating poorly. Already the mother had purchased all the tonics her friends advised.

The boy's appetite eventually returned, but frankly I do not believe the tonics helped one bit. Perhaps his appetite would have returned more quickly if he had not been forced to take tonics.
 Most tonics have a bitter and unpleasant taste. When children are forced to take them, the result is generally an upset stomach, not an increased appetite.
 In former times tonics and wooten underwear were believed to be essential to good health. The "Spring tonics" were a part of the history of every family.

Today, good food has replaced the out-of-date tonic. The daily diet includes plenty of vegetables and fresh fruits. Even during the winter weather there are lots of fresh air and sunlight. These are the best of tonics.

There is one tonic that is still given, but not as an appetite builder. This is cod-liver oil. Cod-liver oil is of great advantage because it supplies the necessary vitamin D, so important for the normal development and growth of the body.

Answers to Health Queries

Mrs. J. H. Q.—What do you advise for a patient troubled with thin blood? What will this turn into if not properly taken care of?

A.—Diet and general care should

If the children lose their appetites, it does not mean they require a tonic. A better remedy is to make sure there is abundant variety in the diet. The child should be treated with various vegetable dishes and fruit preparations. Just as is the case with the adult, a child quickly tires of the routine meal. This dish must be made interesting. When this is the rule, you rarely observe loss of appetite.

A frequent cause of lost appetite in a child is constipation. Many mothers are negligent in regard to this important habit. At an early age, every child should be taught the value and importance of a daily movement. The child should never be permitted to go more than one day without it.

Better Than Tonics

Sometimes the children are restless and irritable. They cannot sleep and they are unable to eat. These are the signs of a disturbed appetite. Sometimes they eat excessively and at other times take very little food.

Grandmothers would not be fooled by these symptoms. She would quickly diagnose these attacks as due to worms. This condition is shown by marked irritability, a child who has been exceedingly calm and of good behavior, now is nervous and very easily upset in temper. There may be a twitching of the body. Grinding of the teeth is a common sign. In the more severe forms, convulsions may occur.

This condition is quickly remedied. If you think your child has worms, consult your physician, who will give the necessary medicines. Please remember that lack of appetite may be due to various things. It does not mean necessarily that the child should have a tonic. Something else is likely to be much better.

The most-kissed girl in Hollywood. The title goes to the lovely and lovable Lily Damita, who comes to town Wednesday in "Radio Pictures' "The Woman Between" at the Grand theatre.

Lily admits a normal fondness for kissing when the circumstances, the man and the occasion warrant. She will take her caresses in proper quantities and call it quits, but she didn't anticipate having twenty-two lovers forced upon her in relays of fifteen minutes apart.

The Radio Pictures' studio wanted a story to play opposite the French torch, so Director Victor Schertzinger conducted tests.

A sore throat often leads to serious illness. Stop it at once. Take Thoxine, a prescription made exclusively for throat ailments; not a gargle. The first swallow relieves the soreness in a few minutes; and goes direct to the internal cause, preventing further trouble.

FARRELL QUILTS

ed States Steel Corporation is scheduled for April 18: when Farrell's resignation will be acted upon. A new president probably will be decided on by the directors before then.

Last year the stockholders' meeting voted to retire automatically officials and employees at the age of 70. Mr. Farrell's resignation was made public more than a year before he would have been retired under that plan.

Farrell was one of the industrial leaders during the past few years opposed to wage cutting. However the corporation last October put into effect a 10 per cent wage reduction.

Last summer Farrell provoked much comment in the industry by his statement that "the most diabolical situation" had been created in the industry because of price cutting. He warned against the evil effects he foresaw from this policy.

Farrell, after working as a laborer in the Pittsburgh Wire Company, became its manager. Later he formed a company at Bradock, Pa., which became part of the American Steel and Wire Company, a U. S. Steel Corporation subsidiary.

After that his rise in the steel industry was rapid. In 1911 he succeeded W. E. Corey as president of the corporation.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — Now Rose Hobart will have to say her goodbye at Universal all over again.

The resignation of Justice Holmes came as a stunning surprise to the capitol, because of his frequent declarations that he would continue on the bench until the end of his days. His health failed rapidly in recent months and he apparently took a lesson from former Chief Justice William Howard Taft, who refused to resign until after his health was broken and his life was about to end.

"BAD GIRL" HEADS "BEST TEN" PICTURES HOLLYWOOD PICKED

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—The human quality in the "Bad Girl" has placed it at the head of the list of ten best pictures for 1931, in the opinion of Jimmy Starr, motion picture editor of the Los Angeles Herald and Express.

A touch of the unusual in story treatment influenced the choice of the ten best photo plays in the judgement of this observer, who witnessed 400 motion pictures in the year.

The list of the best plays picked by Starr was:

1. Bad Girl.
2. The Champ.
3. Cimarron.
4. The Criminal Code.
5. The Last Flight.
6. An American Tragedy.
7. Monkey Business.
8. The Millionaire.
9. The Public Enemy.
10. Skippy.

Ten pictures were listed by Starr as the "most unusual of 1931." These were:

1. Tabu, the late F. W. Murnau's beautifully pictorial drama of the South Seas, with an all-native cast.
2. Trader Horn, hailed the best wild animal picture of all times.
3. Trans-Atlantic, "shot" aboard ship with remarkable camera effects.
4. Are These Our Children, made with unknown young actors.
5. Frankenstein, gruesome and epochal for its treatment.
6. Outward Bound, based on the queer stage play.
7. U. S. C. Notre Dame football game, first picture showing an entire football contest.
8. Rango, a jungle epic.
9. Street Scene, the stage success transferred to the screen by a remarkable adaptation of stage technique to talkies.
10. Around the World in 80 Minutes, Douglas Fairbanks' travel picture.

Ernest Lubitsch was hailed as the best director of the year for his work in "Smiling Lieutenant," and other directors receiving praise were Clarence Brown for "Possessed," Joseph Von Sternberg, "Dishonored," Wesley Ruggles, "Cimarron," King Vidor, "The Champ," Norman Taurag, "Skippy," John Adolf, "The Millionaire," Frank Capra, "Platinum Blonde," E. H. Griffiths "Recan Tragedy." In 400 performances witnessed, the following, because they lacked entertainment value, were listed as the "ten worst pictures of 1931."

1. "Confessions of a Co-ed."
2. "The Silver Horde."
3. "June Moon."
4. "God's Gift To Women."
5. "Mr. Lemon or Orange."
6. "The Night Angel."
7. "Mad Parade."
8. "Captain Applejack."
9. "Magnificent Lie."
10. "Corsair."
